MARINETTE MAN
IS DISBARREDDIST. ATTY. SCHWITZKY TO PRACTICE NO LONGER.AFTER SHERIFF'S OFFICENorthern "Foe of Crafters" Apparently Anticipated Adverse Decision
by Judge Stevens.

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 15.—Found guilty on ten of the thirteen charges against him, Attorney Albert E. Schwitzky, deposed district attorney, was today permanently disbarred from the practice of law in a decision filed by Judge Stevens, of Madison, who has had the case under advisement. The judge finds that the general character of the man is such that he is not fit to practice law in Wisconsin. Schwitzky was found guilty of several crimes and misdemeanors, the most serious being the forging of a lease in 1906. Another charge is that he fraudulently obtained a divorce for a client from Fanny Garbow, by forging a return to a summons in the action. Schwitzky was elected district attorney on an anti-graft platform, while under temporary disbarment, and later was suspended from office and the present action started.

Whether or not this ends Schwitzky's political career in Marinette county is a matter of some doubt. Anticipating an adverse decision by the court, he has already taken steps to place himself in the running for nomination for sheriff against a field of four candidates and the same element that elected him district attorney may desire to have the "fun" continued. The "fun" has been a rather expensive item for Marinette county. It is estimated that Schwitzky's grand jury which was in session for several months, his own jury trial on charges similar to those which have resulted in disbarment, and the services of extra legal counsel called in from Green Bay to perform the duties of district attorney and prosecute Schwitzky have cost over $10,000.

With the assistance of his wife and the financial backing of a couple actively opposed to Senator Stephenson in politics, the ousted district attorney has been publishing a weekly paper called "The Searchlight" and in its columns the errors and alleged misdeeds of prominent citizens exposed to the Schwitzky regime, and their families, from childhood up receive generous allotments of "space." Thus far, however, only Pierre Marquette of the law firm of Lysander & Marquette has commenced a suit against the editor for defamation of character. This action is now pending in circuit court. "The Searchlight" is the fourth of July parade presented Marinette county's "unpleasant" foe of the grafters mounted on a case of two striped criminals and valiantly upholding the law. Numerous other advertising dodges have been resorted to whenever interest in the "fighting district attorney" seemed on the wane. In dispatches to the metropolitan newspapers it has been made to appear from time to time that reformers of "Ulelo Iko" have taken pot shots at Schwitzky through his dining room window or unceremoniously to other ingenious but unsuccessful efforts to get him out of the way. None of these reports of attempted assassination have ever been given any credence in the city of Marinette but they have evoked considerable sympathy in the man in the public settlements of the county and the state at large.

At Schwitzky's indictment proceedings for alleged graft have been carried on against Frank E. Naves, editor and publisher of the Eagle-Star, C. R. Johnson, former chairman of the county board, and numerous other reputable citizens for political purposes.

Omro, Wis., Aug. 15.—"Why should my liberty be decided by another man's conscience?" This was the subject of a sermon preached at the Methodist church here Sunday by Rev. Daniel Woodward who has been rebuked by his presiding elder for campaigning for McGovern, anti-county optionist candidate for governor. At night his congregation upheld his action in taking the stump. In the morning Woodward said that his district superintendent had made a direct thrust at his personal liberty and he did not believe the church wanted to restrict liberty that way. Resolutions commending Woodward and condemning Anderson, district superintendent for his interference were adopted 300 to 5.

Willie Lager, aged 19, swam to shore and Ruth Olson, jumped into shallow water, reaching shore safely. The children were pulling around on a raft, just below the dam. CRYING NEED OF A SOAKING RAINTo Bring Up the Pastures Is Apparent in Southern Wisconsin—Leaf
Looks Better Than Expected.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 15.—That northern Wisconsin crops are faring better even than those of the southern section seems probable in the light of advices following a visit by Professor H. A. Moore of the state agricultural college last week. Winter and spring wheat look exceedingly well, he said. Clover, corn and potatoes are also in good condition. In other sections potatoes are only a half crop. Mixed hay is also a short crop. Light rains fell in this vicinity Sunday morning, but little good will follow. Nothing but a good soaking rain will bring up the pastures. Feed is so short that farmers in over-increasing number are selling their stock at whatever prices they can get.

Some excellent yields of small grains are reported from southern Wisconsin farms. J. D. Arnold of Cottage Grove, Dodge County, threshed 1,200 bushels of rye from 40 acres. Threshing on the George Stoussenger farm in Caladonia, Columbia county, has shown a reportable crop. The yield of oats on 250 acres amounted to 11,579 bushels, or over 50 bushels to the acre. One 50-acre tract yielded over 67 bushels per acre. Frank Rudson, near Milton, Rock county, claims that his oats (30 acres) will run 100 bushels to the acre. They are so heavy and the stalks so thick that trouble has been encountered in harvesting the crop. The heads are long, abundant and completely filled out with oats.

The tobacco crop seems to have held up under the trying weather of the long continued drought better than most of the growers expected. This is especially true of fields that were plowed early and cultivated reasonably often during the dry weather. While on the late plowed fields the tobacco has withered and dried out, the soil on the early plowed ground continued to supply moisture from below and though the plants did not make rapid growth they continued to increase in size when rains came to make quite a satisfactory advancement.

OF A FAMOUS SOLDIERGeneral John B. Magruder, One of Virginia's Foremost Sons, Born
One Hundred Years Ago.

Magruder was born in Winchester, this state, August 15, 1810, and graduated from the West Point military academy in 1830. He served with distinction in the war with Mexico, but his fame rests chiefly upon his services as an officer of the Confederate States army. For several weeks, until incapacitated by illness, he successfully resisted the advance of McClellan's army. Subsequently he was given command of the department of Texas and succeeded in recapturing the city of Galveston from the Federals. After the war he lived for a time in Mexico and then returned to Houston, where his death occurred in 1871.

The heaviest loss occurred in the British section—probably half a million dollars. The entire Belgian section was destroyed. Practically everything in the American, Danish, Russian, Norwegian, Austrian, Japanese, Turkish and Swiss sections was saved. Only the facades of the Italian and Spanish sections and about one-third of the entire French section were burned.

CALIFORNIA WILL PICK CANDIDATESSTATE PRIMARY ELECTIONS WILL BE HELD TOMORROW.FIGHT FOR GOVERNORSHIPInterest Centered on Fight of Five Republican Candidates for Nomination.

San Francisco, Aug. 15.—Primary elections will be held throughout California tomorrow by all political parties for the nomination of candidates for United States senator and representatives in congress, governor, lieutenant governor, associate justice of the supreme court, secretary of state, controller, treasurer, attorney general, surveyor general, clerk of the supreme court, superintendent of public instruction, superintendent of state printing, judges of the district court of appeals, members of the state board of equalization, railroad commissioner, members of the state senate and assembly and county officers.

The majority of the present members of congress are candidates for reelection, and most of these have no very serious opposition for renomination. The primary will be the first held in California in which the voters will endorse a candidate for United States senator. The candidate receiving the majority vote is expected to be chosen by the next legislature to succeed Frank P. Flint, whose term will expire next March, and who declined to try for another term. Three republican aspirants, all hailing from the southern part of the state, are in the field for the senatorship. They are Edwin A. Moserve, a wealthy resident of Los Angeles; John D. Worles, also of Los Angeles, who is regarded as the choice of the republican state machine, and A. G. Spaulding, the one-time baseball player and millionaire sporting goods manufacturer, who has made his home in San Diego for some years.

The chief interest in the primary fight, however, centers in the contest for the governorship. The nomination on the democratic side will go to Theodore A. Bell of San Francisco, who is without opposition. Mr. Bell is a former member of congress and has long been prominent as a democratic politician. Two years ago he acted as temporary chairman of the national convention at Denver which nominated Mr. Bryan for president. Since Mr. Bell has no opposition for the democratic nomination, the real struggle for the governorship is between the five republican aspirants for the office. They are Hiram Johnson, a San Francisco attorney; Philip A. Stanford of Los Angeles, speaker of the assembly; Charles F. Curry of Sacramento, secretary of state; Alden Anderson of Sacramento, state superintendent of banks, and Nathaniel C. Ellory of Sacramento.

Hiram Johnson is the insurgent candidate and has the endorsement of the Roosevelt Republican League. He came into particular prominence during the trial of Abe Ruef in this city, when Francis J. Heney, the special prosecutor, was shot down in the court room. Johnson volunteered to fill his place and secured the conviction of Ruef, who is now appealing a fourteen-year sentence. In his fight for his gubernatorial nomination Johnson has made a vigorous campaign, stumping the state from end to end. It is generally conceded that his nomination depends upon the amount of insurgent sentiment among California republicans. Johnson's clever campaign speeches are believed to have won a considerable number of adherents to his cause and he has also had the aid of Clifford Pinchot, the deposed United States forester, who came to California especially to take the stump in behalf of the Roosevelt league candidate.

Of the other republican aspirants for the governorship, Alden Anderson, regular republican, is the only man who has had any large public experience. He is a rich fruit grower and has served in the legislature and is also state bank commissioner. Charles F. Curry is a politician, and the other candidates have never held public office.

For the nomination for lieutenant governor and other state officers there are a number of spirited contests. This is especially true of the republicans, who have several names on the ballot for all the places to be filled. While insurgency figures to a great or lesser extent in the contests the campaign as a whole has been conducted principally on state issues. These issues for the most part are the same as have been fought out in previous campaigns in California in recent years. On the republican side the fight is one between the so-called state machine and its opponents. The democrats declare that the emancipation of California from Southern Pacific rule overthrows every other public question. Their party platform calls for retrenchment in public expenditures, equal and uniform taxation, the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall system, the improvement of the school system, and the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people.

TO DISCUSS FRATERNAL RATES.

National Congress Gathers at Detroit

In Annual Session.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 15.—President Thomas H. Cannon called to order today in the Hotel Ponce de Leon the twenty-fourth annual session of the National Fraternal Congress. Welcoming addresses were made by Governor Warner, Mayor P. T. Brettmeyer and Vice-President W. W. Wodmessey of the Michigan Fraternal Congress.

The meeting involves directly the future of $5,000,000,000 of the $30,000,000,000 of outstanding fraternal certificates, because of the measure proposed by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners for the regulation of fraternal insurance. Insurance Commissioner John A. Hardigan of Minnesota, president of the insurance commissioners' convention, and Commissioner Reau J. Folk of Tennessee, chairman of the fraternal insurance committee which drafted the proposed measure, are included among the speakers. Those societies which still refuse to refund their rates to an adequate basis are likely to get a grilling that will be notable.

WASHINGTON "ESTES KAPTITA"

The teaching of the language in the public schools of this country and abroad will be the principal topic during the congress. It is believed by the leaders that through the children in the public schools success is to be obtained.

THE VERY TIME

When Powerful Food is Most Needed.

"The need of delicate yet nutritious food is never felt so keenly as when a convalescent gets a set back on account of weak stomach. Then is when Grape-Nuts shows its power for it is the most scientific and easily digested food in the world.

"About a year ago," says a Kansas woman, "my little six-year-old niece, Helen, left the invigorating and buoyant air of Kansas, where all her life she had enjoyed fairly good health, to live in the more quiet atmosphere of Ohio. She had a complete change of diet consisting of a variety of food, and of course a change of water, some how she eventually contracted typhoid fever.

"After a long struggle her case seemed hopeless, doctors gave her up, and she was nothing but skin and bones, couldn't eat anything and for weeks did not know even her father or mother. Her parents, wishing to get some thing delicate and nourishing, finally hit upon Grape-Nuts food for her and it turned out to be just the thing.

"She seemed to relish it, was soon conscious of her surroundings and began to gain health and strength so rapidly that in a short time she was well, playful and robust as if she had never been ill.

"We all feel that Grape-Nuts was the preponderant factor in saving the sweet little girl's life."

PETER'S FAITH A SOURCE OF POWER

WHICH ENABLED HIM TO BECOME THE "ROCK MAN."

SERMON LAST EVENING

By Rev. A. L. McLelland of Hillsboro.

N. D., Told at Congregational Church of Wonderful Things Accomplished.

Rev. A. L. McLelland of Hillsboro, North Dakota, former pastor of the Congregational church at Milton, delivered the sermon at the evening services at the Congregational church last evening.

The text of his discourse was taken from the sixteenth chapter of the Gospel of Matthew, the fifteenth through the nineteenth verses.

A resume of his sermon follows:

"These words of two remarkable men," said Rev. McLelland, "express their confidence in each other. On Peter's part it was an expression of confidence to the extent of the deep conviction of the truth of the words which Christ had spoken to him, and which their companionship together had revealed to the disciples. In Peter's life it was the anchor that held him steadfast to a great purpose and the goal toward which he was striving.

On Jesus' part they were of approval and encouragement to the disciples. There is continual evidence of confidence in Jesus in the lives of the Apostles and that confidence helped form their character.

First, I am going to ask you how this belief helped form Peter's character, and how it helps to form the character of others. The disciples, as the companions of Jesus, knew him as none other than themselves did. They knew his manner of life and something of the inner life of Christ. Perhaps they only implied the depths of association with him, of hearing his teachings, and yet from the relationship between Christ and the Apostles, they recognized the peculiar relationship between him and the Father, and there dawned on them a belief in his Messiah-like character.

What Peter spoke was meant sincerely, but it was to be more deeply based on his life. Peter had a revelation of the power of Jesus and would have liked to have lived always in the presence of Jesus, but Jesus told them that they should go down and work among the people and see him or speak with him only that they might receive inspiration to put forth their utmost efforts.

Even yet Peter was to learn more of that power. Believing with all his life, his power and his soul in that, because of his belief he was to get a better view of the Power of Jesus.

Peter was a Jew. He was taught the Jewish Bible, and in turn taught it to his own people and later to some of the Gentiles. It was hard for him, a Jew, to go among the Gentiles to labor, but his Christianity gave him the strength of purpose to do it. Still, he was not a narrow-minded, stubborn Peter, but a strong, upright Peter, established in his convictions. Indeed Peter was then the "rock man" which Jesus had said he would be. He had learned that righteousness, love, and sacrifice are the things that count for most.

Let us look at other people and see what has been the effect on their lives. "Chinese" Gordon was a man of courage, carrying the flag of war into all countries. Yet, while others were loading themselves down with the spoils of war, he stood off with clean hands. After the establishment of peace he put forth his efforts and secured a school for the ragged native boys in the streets. He used the influence of his Christian character to bring the boys to a true recognition of the responsibilities they shared with other men. He did his best when he saw the chance to serve others. His belief led him to give his life for the service of others.

William Carey studied his geography and his books and saw a great nation with great numbers of people, in India people came dying by the thousands and he left his home to go to India to give his vision of Christ to the Indian people. The Bible and his great faith were the only weapons he had. He lost himself in India, but the true spirit of the Christ life accomplished great things for God and the world. His faith was communicated to others and a great missionary work was established in the world.

Then we can look at some of the great men in the world's history and see how nations have been affected; how through their faith men can see the greater things and the way to a larger life.

The Pilgrims came to this country to seek out a new way of worship, to break away from the old customs; and to bring to the world a knowledge of the simpler life devoted to Christ; and they lived among successful and endured many sufferings that they might sow the seed of truth that they thought would bring Christ's truth and light into the very essence of the nation's life.

We may look to the leaders in movements for better things. In temperance and in slavery, there were men and women who saw a vision of the living God, and spend their lives in an effort to put down the wrong; to work out their beliefs. And we learn that by faith and not by force; but by the conquering power of the love of God, that the world goes on and the church goes on to greater conquests. "The only way the church and the Christ life is to grow is by a vision of the Son of God, because it puts in us the strength and power to do great things. This is the way we as individuals come to a larger life.

FINED FOR PICKING UP BAG OF BARLEY

Shoppers Men Sadder Yet Wiser, For Appropriating Grain Laying In Road at Clinton.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Clinton, Aug. 13.—A bag of barley on a load of the grain which Martin Henderson was taking to the elevator for Lewis this yesterday, fell off the wagon in front of the Smith & Holcomb plant and was not missed until the elevator, in the next block, was reached. After the load had passed, two men, Farrell and Chamberlain, of Shopleys, drove by, and seeing the sack of barley in the road, stopped, picked it up and drove home with it, although warned by Mr. J. B. Thompson that the grain belonged to a farmer who would doubtless return for it. Mr. Due immediately had a warrant sworn out for the men and Constable G. R. Crabtree and Marshal Baldwin started after them. The men were brought before Justice Cleveland and each paid fines and costs of $1.25.

The team was finally caught in William Miller's yard where they broke a pump and rammed the tongue of the wagon through a window.

DIFFERENCE OF PRESENT LAW AND PROPOSED MEASURE

Where Local Option Law and Proposed County Option Bill are at Variance.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 15.—How many voters in the state can answer these questions:

What is County Option?

What is Local Option?

How do the two differ?

With the primary election but a few days off, when the voters will have their only opportunity of expressing their views on the important question when they cast their ballot for their candidates for the Assembly and the State Senate, it is important that all should fully understand the provisions of the present Local Option law and the proposed County Option bill. Here are simple, plain definitions of the two:

Local Option:

In 1889 the legislature of Wisconsin passed the present local option law. By its terms, any town, village or city in the state may determine for itself whether or not the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be licensed therein. Elections can be held each year if petitions are filed, signed by ten per cent of the total number of votes cast at the last general election in such town, village or city, for governor. On the filing of such petition, it becomes the duty of the clerk to give notice for such election and to give the majority of the votes cast at this election in such city, village or town be against license, then no license shall be granted to deal or traffic in intoxicating liquors until another election is held regarding such election.

County Option:

The County Option Bill provides that the electors of a county may by vote determine whether or not license shall be granted anywhere within the county permitting the manufacture, sale and dealing in malt and spirituous liquors. But—

The bill further provides that, in the event that the county should vote "wet" notwithstanding this majority vote of the people in favor of granting license, that if any town, village or city in the county should, by a majority of its voters, vote against license, then no license shall be granted to such town, village or city, no matter how the people of the county as a whole may have voted. If, however, a majority of the electors of the county as a whole should vote "dry" or no license, then regardless of the large majority of the electors of any town, village or city in favor of license, no license shall be granted to such town, village or city because a majority of the electors of the whole county had voted "dry."

If the majority of the people of a county vote "wet," no matter how large such majority may be, the county is not "wet," for any town, village or city located therein is "dry" if it itself has given a "dry" majority.

If the majority of the people of a county should vote "dry," the whole county is "dry," regardless of how the majority of the citizens of any town, village or city therein may vote, and the entire county, including all towns therein that may vote "wet" must remain "dry."

These systems differ, in that one is option and the other is not. Under Local Option the law follows the expression of the voters and all territory voting wet is wet and all voting dry is dry. Under County Option all territory voting dry is dry but all territory voting wet is not permitted to be wet. This is the true option for option means choice and towns voting "wet" under County Option have no choice whatever if they happen to be located in "dry" county. Such County Option is prohibition and the infliction of prohibition upon any unwilling city or community is sure to be followed by demoralization, lawlessness and hypocrisy. It means illicit selling under the worst known conditions, the "blind pig" and the boot legger.

The present local option law has been on the statute books of Wisconsin for twenty years and has given general satisfaction. It is true option. Any town, city or village may decide for or against the saloon for itself. It is the adoption of the home rule principle that every town, village or city, as political municipalities, shall have this opportunity to determine for themselves the manner in which the social habits and conduct of the people, so far as they may affect the general community, shall be regulated.

REORGANIZED FIRM OF BAILEY & SON

Successors: Bart, Bailey & Co. in Janesville and Beloit—Harvey Bailey to Manage Beloit Branch.

The firm name of Bart, Bailey & Co. has been changed to F. J. Bailey & Son, owing to the death of W. H. Greenman, and the partnership existing between F. J. Bailey and the late W. H. Greenman has been dissolved.

This firm was organized thirty years ago in Beloit by A. N. Hart and F. J. Bailey.

Twenty-four years ago the firm purchased the business of M. C. Smith of Janesville and opened the Bart, Bailey & Co. store in this city. The following year W. H. Greenman was admitted as a partner. Two years ago, in August, A. N. Hart retired from the firm, and Mr. Greenman took charge of the Beloit store and moved his family to Beloit. The latter's interests have been purchased by the new firm of F. J. Bailey and his son, H. E. Bailey. F. J. Bailey is to take the management of the Janesville store and H. E. Bailey will manage the Beloit store, and the business will continue along the same lines as in the past.

During all the years of F. J. Bailey's association with the firm he has taken the most active part in the management, and has done practically all of the buying for the both stores, and will continue to take the same active part in the new co-partnership.

Mrs. Greenman and daughter will remain in Janesville to reside.

SALE OF LAND WOULD PAUPERIZE THE INDIANS

Gore Inquiry Committee Is Told Cash Might Ruin Tribes Within Ten Years.

Sulphur, Okla., Aug. 15.—Witnesses testified before the Gore congressional Indian land investigating committee that if the Indian lands in Oklahoma were sold and the $30,000,000 proceeds were turned over to the Indians in cash, the state within ten years would be flooded with paupers.

It was asserted that many of the Indians who signed the McMurray contracts, allowing a ten per cent "attorney fee" to J. P. McMurray and his associates, were financially irresponsible. They would squander the cash, it was declared, and within a few years the country would be confronted with the problem of how to take care of them.

Except for the appearance on the stand of Cecil A. Lyon, Republican national committeeman of Texas, the witnesses were all Indians. Mr. Lyon told of his financial interest in the old tribal McMurray contracts, which provided for a ten per cent fee, but which were disapproved by President Roosevelt in 1908.

Asked if he had been invited by McMurray to join in the deal because of his political influence and his acquaintance with Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Lyon said he supposed he was, but he also attributed the invitation to his business ability.

Many Chickasaws testified they were willing to give McMurray as high as 25 per cent, attorney's fees if he would sell the land within a year.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

IN THE hope of bringing a suggestion to some woman who has her living to earn and cannot decide just how to do it, and, with a desire to give women a broader outlook upon what the rest of their sex are doing, I occasionally devote this column to telling something about some of the unusual ways in which women are earning their bread and butter. If any of my readers are doing any work that is rather out of the ordinary, or know of anyone else who is doing such work, I wish they would write me a few lines about it.

Please tell how you or your friend started in with the unusual work, what its advantages and disadvantages are, and how well it pays.

An unique niche in the real estate business has been both created and filled by a very clever woman, with a small amount of money and a large one of taste.

After failing to obtain a regular position as a real estate agent, this woman started the business of making undesirable summer houses desirable.

She began by renting a house that was desirable in locality and in everything but furnishings, and completely overhauling it. She repapered, painted, cleaned and re-furnished it—mostly with second-hand furniture, rejuvenated, and doing so at inexpensive hangings. All of the work this rejuvenating entailed, she herself did with the help of a scrub-woman. Not a room cost more than fifty dollars, but it was all done with such taste and dash that as soon as it was furnished she rented the house for the summer for twice what she had paid for a whole year.

She was at once offered a position by the real estate agent, but preferred to work along this new line and has made a good living in this way. Often she furnishes the house with antique furniture rejuvenated, and sometimes sells the furniture. This year she expects to make desirable, and subtle, five houses at a good profit.

Because of the high cost of foodstuffs, woman's time honored occupation—keeping boarders—is said to be difficult to make profitable just now.

One clever woman, however, has evolved a variation upon it that she has been able to make pay very well.

She boards helpless and "cranky" old folks, charging from ten dollars up, according to the care required, and as care is the chief commodity supplied and the food they consume is a comparatively small consideration, she makes a very comfortable thing out of it.

At present she has six guests and keeps two maids. One maid does the washing and ironing, the other does the table work and chamber work and helps her with the old folks. She herself does all the cooking and takes care of the guests. Under present conditions she could accommodate eight. Four are the best with which such an establishment could be made to pay, she says.

Of course, most of the old folks are just like children and require infinite patience and watchfulness. Some of them have to be dressed and undressed and fed. Some are weak-minded and ask the same question half a dozen times in half an hour. They are also apt to be blue and depressed, requiring constant cheering.

"No one could do it who did not like old people," she comments, "but for anyone who does and who has much patience and vitality, I think there is a good opening for such work in any good-sized town or city. Get the doctors to be on the lookout for cases for you to apply for, and advertise in the local paper."

Now please don't forget to send in that little story of your work that may help or interest some other woman.

TO BE PROCLAIMED KING AND QUEEN—PRINCESS MILENA AND PRINCE NICHOLAS OF MONTENEGRO.

London.—On the occasion of his coronation, King Nicholas proposes to establish a special order of knighthood. Princess Milena of Montenegro is the wife of Prince Nicholas, and, with her husband, will on August 15 assume some royal rank as a sovereign, and become the Queen of Zeta—a title that of itself suggests romance. She was born at Cervo in 1817, and is the mother of nine children—three sons and six daughters. One of her daughters is the Queen of Italy; two others have married Russian grand dukes, and one is married to Prince Francis Joseph of Austria. On becoming queen, her majesty, it is said, intends, with her husband, the new king, to remodel the court at Cetinje on the lines of the court of Vienna, where after that of Spain, the most elaborate and complicated system of etiquette of any European court prevails.

PLAYING GAMES.

THE MARY HESSLELI
Playing games is with some young people—and some old ones—a business. They take the pleasure so seriously that it is labor instead of relaxation.

A good game of tennis would leave the nerves relaxed, the blood tingling, the mind cheerful and full of pleasant thoughts. So with croquet, golf and the hundred and one pastimes which take people into the open. All such measures should be cultivated. The big world of nature and the fresh air, charged with the divine essence, which make for long lives, should be part of the games which the growing men and women learn. Games of cards are very well for the old who have hopelessly dropped out of the gay rounds of real living. Bridge, whist and its attendant train of games of skill and gambling, are the pleasures for the downer who cherishes the prizes thus won with unvarnished clutch. Cards for a couple who have grown old together afford a quiet and pleasant method of entertainment, but young people should abstain and pay no attention to them. Life means more than a game of cards where there is good red blood in the veins.

If a little more harmony had entered into the game there would still be seen happy elderly men and women playing who never touch the malice nowadays. Listen to a party of young people wrangling over games of skill, whether it be croquet or pitching horse shoes, and you will not make any mistake.

But if you play athletic games of skill do not be too strict in your effort to make others adhere to the rules of the game. You will have your hands full if you will attend to your own game. You will play better and feel more serene if you allow each to go on a sense of honor. There is such a thing as being over-anxious that everybody should play according to rules. People who do this are very likely to try to make exceptions in their own favor.

There was a time when croquet was considered almost immortal, as it caused so much quarreling. It was in high favor as a game by church members at socials and afternoons, but feeling sometimes ran so high over a mooted point in the rules that friends turned to foes and churches and societies became almost disrupted. So strong did the feeling become against the game that it was almost prohibited as a gambling device.

A little common sense would have helped keep the balance—but the truth was that so many of the players were middle-aged when they began that they became intoxicated with the "sporting chance." It is human to like the pitting of one's skill against that of another. Also, it is also human to desire to win so earnestly as to sometimes lose the sense of proportion.

Robinson's Exalted Abode.
A robin built its nest under a ledge on the top of the pulpit in Oughtrington Parish church. The nest in due time held three eggs and the rector took great care not to have it disturbed until the young ones were hatched out in their exalted abode.

take us to the cause of such wrangling. It is the desire to dominate. It is in part, also, the dictatorial attitude of many. They know what they know so well that they do not give others credit for the same recalcitrance of purpose and desire to do right that they think they have.

Teach children games of all kinds and teach them to play them honorably and tolerantly. If one of a child's moods is a cheat he may be avoided, but it is not worth growing excited over and quarreling about.

It is the old game of life. Be sure you are right in your thinking as well as in your action. Do not talk loud and find fault and argue. No one succeeds along such lines whether the game is of skill in athletics or in business. Be serene and moderate in your judgment—and always play fair.

A Restaurant Gown With Picture Hat. Cafe au lilies, that exquisite blending of pale tan and cream tones so aptly described by the French name, is the coloring of the lovely costume illustrated. Over a pleated tulle of creamy tan chiffon hangs a tunic of deep coffee colored chiffon heavily embroidered with cream silk. The absolute simplicity in the line of this gown serves to bring out all the richness of the embroidery. The whole gown is draped over a foundation of pale shell pink satin which gives a soft glow to the cream and tan tones, and the big black hat bears at one side a pink velvet rose.

WOMAN SELECTED TO IMPORTANT OFFICE.

Miss Ellis Meredith of Denver, who was recently elected commissioner by a large and popular vote over seven male opponents.

(By Special Correspondent.)
Miss Ellis Meredith of Denver, who was recently elected by the Citizens party commissioner of elections, receiving nearly 21,000 votes, a total which exceeded the combined vote of her seven male opponents, is the exact opposite of the generally accepted idea of the woman in politics.

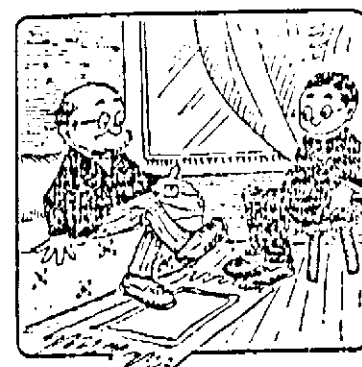

She is delicate in appearance, tiny in size, of a lovely personality, gentle and refined. She possesses a profound intellect, scholarly attainments, and above all feels a large and abounding interest in the public welfare. Men and women alike are her faithful adherents, and when asked for an explanation they invariably reply that she has ever stood for the highest and best and that she has always made good.

Miss Meredith is noted equally as a speaker and a writer, and she has taken part in most of the struggles as well as the victories that have occurred in Colorado in the past 20 years, giving of her time, her brains and her means whenever occasion demanded, and she wrote much of the suffrage literature that was required. Some of this she always took with her in her walks, handing it to those whom she met, and never failed to pass it around to her fellow-passengers when she rode in the street car. She traveled up and over the state lecturing for woman suffrage, and did probably more than any other woman in Colorado to educate the general public in regard to this issue.

Miss Meredith's election to this important office marks an epoch in the history of woman suffrage and women in official positions.

ANSWERS CRITICS.

The Milwaukee Free Press has been most insistent in its crusade during the present campaign to explain fully its position as regards national politics and also the much talked of primary law. Unfriendly editors have questioned the Free Press and dared them to show where the senior senator has abandoned his former position to such an extent that the support of the former mouthpiece of reform had any position to explain its present attitude. In answering these critics the Free Press gives a bit of Wisconsin political history that is well worth remembering.

"In reply to the insistent claims that Senator La Follette has abandoned no progressive principles that would justify a former adherent to seek other leadership we recently indicated such abandonment in his interference as a federal officer in state contests, his repudiation of the open primary, his revival of senatorial elections by the legislature.

"If in any one of the excess mentioned Senator La Follette had become false to an avowed principle in order to avert what to him seemed a great or evil there might be some slight excuse for his having played the renegade and thrown his associates into confusion.

"That he has not even that excuse, when, by his participation in the Leisner-Davidson primary campaign, he did what he had denounced and condemned in other federal officers, he was actuated purely by the desire to elect his personal candidate.

"Leisner and Davidson both were his adherents and stood for the same policies.

"When, by his repudiation of the result of the Trempealeau primary, he opened the door to the repudiation of every nomination under the open primary, the moving inspiration was the defeat of his personal candidate.

"Eckern and Twiss both were his adherents and stood for the same policies.

threw the contest into the legislature and thus negated the essential purpose of the direct nomination of United States senators, there was again discernible his discontent with the success of a candidate personally undesired.

"Hutton and Stephenson both were his adherents and stood for the same policies.

"For Senator La Follette to question Senator Stephenson's nomination at that time because it was vaguely charged by the latter's political enemies that he had employed money corruptly was to vindicate an unsupported charge that can be made against any primary nominee and thus to invest it with power to set at naught the popular will.

"It is not our purpose here to be little in the least the work of agitation, organization and initial accomplishment which Senator La Follette wrought in this state along numerous reformatory lines; nor is it our purpose to display his unfortunate activities in a sinister or ignominious light.

"We merely desire to illustrate the senator's lapses from principle and what makes these lapses the more grievous, that they were in the greatest measure inspired by personal partisanship in contests that involved his followers and fellow believers.

"In these lapses and their inspiration lies the cause for the many notable defections of erstwhile La Follette leaders, the cause for the belief that Senator La Follette, while able and in sympathy in the early stages of a reform movement, does not possess those constructive qualities of leadership, that ability to admit personal defects in the cause, that makes a reformer's value enduring and insures the perpetuity of his principles."

NARROWING DOWN.
The preliminary campaign is becoming shorter and shorter. The gubernatorial candidates are making their last tours of the state by auto and by train to meet the voters face to face and to expound their views on the burning issues of the campaign.

Of the republican aspirants for office H. T. Fairchild of Milwaukee appears to be making the best headway. His platform, an endorsement of the republican principles, is meeting with approval of the voters. For Houston anti governor, George B. Hadden of Superior appears to be most talked of, a strong man for the important position he seeks. Levi Hancock of Beloit is also making many friends and adding the cause of the Taft republicans in the state. His strong speeches are having their effect upon the voters. (Story for Insurance commission also continues to sail along on the general wave of popularity. In Rock county the assembly fight is most interesting. In the first, Whitte should have the united support of all republicans who seek to have the right man in the right place to protect their interests. Grant C. Fisher has no opposition in the second while in the third a three-cornered fight is in progress the result of which means much to the county. Grant should be nominated for, with all due respect to the other candidates, he is the most able of the trio and would make the best assemblyman. The voters will have to do some tall thinking before the primary day so as to make no mistake when it comes to voting.

THE BRIDGE QUESTION.
Citizens of Janesville should not forget that on primary day the important question of voting for or against the proposition to build two new bridges is to be decided. A vote for the bridge proposition means an aid to the problem of a greater Janesville. Both are badly needed to accommodate the general public and their construction has been delayed too many years already. It is too bad that the city fathers did not include the Milwaukee street structure in the list so that all three could be done at once.

It is much easier to say a good word for a community than to knock it. The Gazette believes that Janesville deserves the praise that can be given it and everyone should play their part in the boosting.

Cincinnati has a man with a six inch nose and he is going to have it amputated. Perhaps he visited Pittsburgh and Chicago and found the smells more than he could stand.

Pinchot is to occupy a back seat on his western tour with Roosevelt. He will look thoughtful when the former president tells his audiences what a fine man Taft is.

"You'll Succeed in Janesville" appears to have caught the popular idea and it is proving that a slogan will do much to awaken public sentiment.

In the old days they used to take the census on census days. It has had been done Saturday, Janesville would have been well up in the lists.

Two Great Falls, Montana men have been sent to jail for padding the census and still Great Falls is a bustling sort of a city.

Aviators are flying high but the morning stars still hang high and are not bothered by the daring men birds as yet.

Being a good mayor should not be made a capital offense, to satisfy crank spotters.

Other persons who are reckless of their reputation are now trying to climb Mt. McKinley.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE MEANEST MAN.

The meanest man has been found, and this is the story of his meanness: A young man of twenty-three years, bright and industrious, was employed in the shops of a railway company in Chicago.

One day he was passing between some cars that stood in a poorly lighted passageway. A switch engine suddenly jammed the cars together, and the young man was caught between the bumpers.

He escaped instant death. But he was made a cripple for life, suffering for many weeks in the hospital before he could return to the home of his widowed mother.

Enter the meanest man. This individual is a "prominent" lawyer of Chicago who formerly had been a neighbor of the young man's family in a small town.

The lawyer volunteered his services in bringing suit against the company for damages.

It was very clear that the company and been negligent in its manipulation of the cars without proper lighting. The lawyer said there would be difficulty in collecting damages.

Then this "friend of the family" began the tactics of delay. The case was postponed again and again upon one excuse or another.

Finally after an important witness had disappeared and the merits of the case had been jeopardized by delay the lawyer told the family it was impossible to go on with the case.

It developed then that the pretended friend of the family had been hired by the railroad's counsel to postpone the hearing and keep the plaintiff out of court.

The sequel? When the crippled boy realized the meanness of the lawyer something in his brain gave way.

He became a raving maniac. Did I not say the meanest man had been found? Where will you find a match for this perdition second?

For a few cursed dollars he became a traitor to friendship, robbed a helpless cripple of his legal rights, left a family without support and drove a human soul to the depths.

But God Almighty will search him out either here or hereafter and select him for punishment.

Else the Almighty is forgetful, which he is not.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

Don't tell me now, my Willie boy, of dazzling things you mean to do; for threats of that sort but annoy a sage whose years are not a few. I've noticed in the passing years that those who seek the higher ways get down and work like bridle steers, and leave the talking graft for jays. I do not care a red for schemes, unless you work and sweat and weep; I do not give a whoop for dreams, unless you have them in your sleep. You Willie boys make golden plans, and all your plans to you seem good; but I will bet my pills on Hans who gets his saw and cuts the wood. You Willie boys are throwing life's great fortunes that will come to pass; but I admire the curves of Pyrex, whose safety sash is cutting grass. You Willie boys are scheming how to keep your fingers white and nice; but I have marked the sweet-stained brow of Hiram, who puts up the lee. Oh, Willie, if you'd really nail some honey in this busy hive, quit dreaming—get to work like Bill Columbia, and you'll arrive!

PAN-AMERICAN BANK A CERTAINTY.

David Kinley, expert on banking and finance questions.

(By Special Correspondent.)
Buenos Ayres.—According to David Kinley, dean of the graduate school of the University of Illinois and one of the country's foremost experts on banking and financial questions, the establishment of a Pan-American bank with central offices in New York and branches in the principal cities of Central and South America, is a certainty in the near future.

The reluctance of large financial interests to foster the plan has hindered developments in the past, but now both private and public interests are cognizant of the advisability and advantages of such an institution, and definite steps to further the scheme are expected to be taken without further delay.

Mr. Kinley, who is at present in Buenos Ayres studying the situation, is fully assured that such a bank, capitalized at $100,000,000 and backed by United States interests, would afford facilities for international commercial relations among the Americas, which cannot be enjoyed under the present banking system.

It is a tremendous undertaking and one which would entail far reaching consequences, still Mr. Kinley assures us that within a year or two a Pan-American bank will be a living established fact.

JANESVILLE LUCKY REGARDING CROOKS

But Two Robberies And One Pocket Picked Is Report of Police for a Sunday Last.

Only two robberies by crooks following the Klingling Bros. circus were reported to the police Saturday evening which was better than Janesville easily in comparison to Rockford and Sterling, Ill., where numerous thefts were reported on the two preceding days.

The only house entered was that of William A. Douglas, who resides just outside of the city limits on Center Ave. The robbers entered the house during the absence of the family in the afternoon and secured $25 in five dollar bills, a watch, several gold rings, a brooch and a necklace. The loss was not discovered until seven o'clock Saturday evening when the family returned from the circus.

Twenty dollars and three notes, representing a total of $300, were taken from Floyd Hlyen of Oregon, Wis., by pickpockets while he was leaving the train at the North-Western station. He reported that two men crowded him and that the theft was undoubtedly committed at that time. His wallet containing the cash and the notes has not been found and no trace of the booty secured at the Douglas home has been uncovered.

William and Jacob Polaski of Chicago, supposedly, who were arrested Saturday afternoon on a street car, on suspicion, have been released as no charge could be brought against them. They left town immediately.

Lanark, Scotland, Aug. 15.—James Laidley, the English aviator, flew one mile in 47.25 seconds in a Humber monoplane. This is a world's record for speed.

Another Suicide Speculation.

It is concerning the finding of a green felt hat and a coat yesterday afternoon in the rear of Dr. E. H. Dudley's residence on S. Main St., near the bank of the river. The hat was purchased at the Golden Eagle store in this city. No one has claimed the apparel and the police have been unable to ascertain in how they happen to be found there.

TO BEGIN PAVING SOUTH MAIN ST. ON SEVENTEENTH

Contractors Expect Full Supply of Paving Brick by End of Present Week.

Work of paving South Main street will probably be started by the middle of next week, according to the statement of the Grand, Graham Co., of Freeport, Ill., who have the contract. Inability to secure the paving brick has held the work up but the Burlington Paving Brick Co., who will furnish the material, have announced that they expect to ship five carloads of brick Aug. 17, which should be in the city and ready to be laid at the date specified. The long continued delay has been caused by the fact that the company has been unable to secure coal in consequence of the Illinois coal miners' strike.

As soon as the material arrives, the contractors expect to place a large force of men at work and rush the paving to completion as soon as possible. They are now endeavoring to complete the greater part of the work on Jackson, Sinclair, South Second and South Third streets before the South Main street job is started.

Eleven teams are drawing an average of eighty-eight yards of crushed stone daily to the above named streets and it is expected that the streets will be covered within two weeks. One car of asphalt which will be used with granite for a top dressing has already arrived.

Mr. Graham, who has been in the city supervising the work, has gone to Elkhart, Ind., where the firm is bidding on a $20,000 contract.

POLICE RELEASED ARMFIELD SUNDAY

Youth Wanted For Alleged Theft in Red Oak, Iowa, Declares He is Innocent.

Acting upon instructions from Sheriff O. E. Jackson of Red Oak, Iowa, Homer Armfield was taken in custody on Saturday last charged with the alleged theft of $121 from a fellow worker. He was detained at the police station until Sunday afternoon and then given his liberty on word having been received from the sheriff to hold him although notified of his detention. Armfield states that he is not guilty of the alleged theft and has sent word to the man who swore out the warrant stating he would fight the case. He looks upon the whole matter as a "frame up." He has been working with a carnival company for some months and lately was employed by this people who has cutting stands at fairs. Ray Potter, a fellow employee, is the one who alleged the loss of money and Armfield states he thinks he was suspected because he was known to have had money in his possession and left the restaurant man a week ago Friday because he had to lay off for a week.

BELVIDERE TAKES LOPSIDED CONTEST

Janesville Defeated Yesterday Afternoon at Yost Park by a Score of 10 to 1.

Belvidere sent a bunch of exponents from the W-I circuit and fast semi-pros against Ward's team yesterday afternoon at Yost Park and the hitherto unbeaten Bower City squad was defeated to the short end of a 10 to 1 score. At no time during the contest did Janesville have a chance to win, but they pitched a good game against the Chicago "Warriors" two weeks ago, was wild while his team could not find Ackermann at the moment when a hit meant runs. Both flingers struck out nine men but the "Man from Home" allowed twelve hits in ten runs while Janesville's ten hits only batted a single tally.

That Belvidere went to considerable trouble to annex the game is shown by the fact that nearly half of the players were old Wisconsin-Milwaukee leaguers, among them being Frothing, Straub, Rorabaugh, Erickson, and O'Brien. Belvidere played good ball but had their opponents equalled their performance of two weeks ago, no such low added score would have resulted. The detailed score:

BELVIDERE.

CASE WAS SETTLED BY A STIPULATION

Suit Against Union Pacific For Loss of Horses Has Been Adjudged Out of Court.

Several months ago William Hendee, of this county, shipped a lot of horses from Wyoming to the city of Beloit, over the Union Pacific Railroad. For some reason or other, several of them died on the way. In due course, Mr. Hendee presented a claim for five hundred dollars for the loss of these horses to the railroad company. It was not paid, it being claimed by the company that the horse were in a starving condition when shipped, some time ago Mr. Hendee sued the railroad company, at the same time garnishing Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company. The matter has evidently been adjusted satisfactorily, as a stipulation was filed today in the Circuit Court of this county, dismissing the action, Woolsey & Arnold signing for the plaintiff, Thos. S. Nolan for the Union Pacific Railroad Company, William G. Wheeler, of Milwaukee, for the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company, and C. Van Alstine and H. J. Killham, of Milwaukee, for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company.

RECEIVERS MAKING REPAIRS ON LINE OF LOCAL COMPANY

New Span Wire Being Installed, Spring Brook Bridge Nearly Finished—Other Improvements.

The receivers are making fairly good progress with the rehabilitation of the Janesville street railway. They have made a good start toward putting in new overhead work, a great many new poles have been set, and new span wires have already been placed on the poles from the end of Milton Avenue line to the center of the business portion of the city. The placing of the span wires in position will be first completed on the Milton Avenue and cemetery lines, when the trolley wire will be put up on those branches of the railway. The wires are the same size and weight as those used on the Rockford & Interurban railway.

The brick for the proposed pavement on South Main street should be here on or before the 20th instant, if the brick company fulfills its agreement. The laying of the heavy rail on that street will be done as the pavement progresses.

The construction of the Spring Brook bridge is progressing as rapidly as possible, under the supervision of Mr. Cohen. The plans and specifications contemplate a bridge strong enough to carry the heaviest type of interurban car. The Rockford & Interurban Railway Company have agreed to pay the city its share of the cost of construction of this bridge.

The real estate owned by the Rockford & Interurban Railway Company on the west side of the river, upon which its freight and express office is located, is in the hands of real estate agents, for sale, possession to be given on or before January 1, 1911. It is expected that by that date all the business of the interurban company will be transacted on the east side.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, August 15, 1870.—Jottings.—An interesting family gathering was held at the residence of Mr. L. H. Cutting, in the Fourth ward, on Friday last, consisting of father and mother, aged 80 and 76, and their three sons and two daughters, with their families, one son and family coming from California to be present at the reunion. Valuable presents were exchanged, the venerable father, Mr. Edwards, being the recipient of a handsome gold-headed cane made from wood cut on the Sierra Nevada mountains, topped with California gold. The entire group was photographed by Barker.

Mr. George Heide, who resides in the First ward, states that he has gathered, within two or three weeks, six bushels of potato bugs from three acres of vines. That is better than potatoes are yielding in some localities.

Domestic economy is illustrated by a boat-black on our streets who carries with him a small alcohol stove with which he cooks his daily rations of tea or coffee. Besides its cheapness, this style of living recommends itself from its convenience, as its owner always has his hotel with him. When meal time arrives he goes into camp wherever he may happen to be, prepares his repast and devours it independent of landlords or waiters. Truly life freed from these annoyances must be a blessing.

The Barons of Heaven Dam, arrive on the night train, tonight, from the north.

Mr. David Myers has purchased the grocery business and stock of O'Brien & Bowles, and has moved from his old location to the store occupied by the latter gentleman.

Remember that the meeting of the capitalists and business men of the city is to be held at the court room at seven o'clock this evening, to adopt measures to secure the location of the Chicago life factory at this place. A large attendance is desired.

MY WIFE COMES BACK FROM THE COUNTRY.

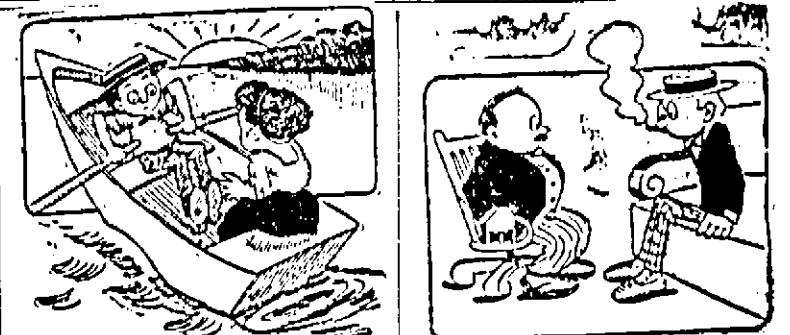

KING GEORGE AS FIELD MARSHAL
Center, King George of England; at right, Duke of Connaught.

London.—King George has won the soldiers completely by his personal interest in such and every man.

The characteristic thoroughness with which his majesty deals with everything that he undertakes was strongly evidenced during the memorable week that he spent in Aldershot. Turning out daily at an early hour, the king went everywhere on horseback and personally inspected everything. He showed a close personal interest in the soldiers by visiting their barracks and making informal inspections of the men "at home," at it were, also going over the hospitals and the training schools and establishments. His majesty also watched the field-firing practice of the troops at close quarters, alighting from his charger and following the soldiers on foot as they advanced firing at "dummy" targets, and accompanying the final attack until the "come-firing" sounded. On one occasion, also, during field operations, his majesty observed that the men seemed very hot in their service kit, and one man brought to him and personally examined the details of the kit and the weight of the equipment.

The Girl and the Bill

By Bannister Merwin

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—At the expense of a cold hat, Orme saves from arrest a girl in black touring car who has caused a traffic jam on State street. He buys a new hat and is given in change a five dollar bill with "Memorable person" written on it. A second time he helps the girl in the black car and learns that in Tom and Beattie Wallingham they have mutual friends, but she no further hint of her identity. In his room at the Pere Marquette he telephones Beattie Wallingham and agrees to go to at 10 o'clock on the morrow. He discovers another inscription on the marked bill, which, in a futile attempt to decipher it, he copies and places the copy in a drawer.

CHAPTER II.—Senior Portolito, South American, calls and claims the marked bill. Orme refuses to give it up. Portolito accuses Orme, he overcomes and calls in Senior Alcantara, minister from his country, to vouch for him. Alcantara tries diplomacy to get the bill. Orme is suspicious and declines them with promise to keep the bill until ten tomorrow morning. The office clerk tells Orme that a Japanese has called for him, but he goes away without leaving name or message.

CHAPTER III.—Orme goes for an evening walk and in Lincoln park rescues Alcantara from two Japanese assassins. Alcantara again tries diplomacy, but fails to get the marked bill. On his return to the Pere Marquette Orme is dragged by two Japanese into the time-traveling passage to the courtyard, introduced into silent submission and a forced witness of a marked bill for another is effected. His assassin escape. He notes one of them has a scarred forehead.

CHAPTER IV.—In the Pere Marquette Orme meets a girl who tells him the girl of the car waiting for him. She too, wants the bill. Orme tells his story. She recognizes the bill with the scar as Alcantara's rather than the second inscription on the bill is the key to the hiding place of important papers stolen from her father. Both Japanese and South American want the papers. She can not tell him who she is, nor the secret of the papers, but she promises to help her. He tells her "Orme" and she takes the copy of the inscription. The girl disappears. They start out in the black touring car in quest of the missing papers.

CHAPTER V.—In the university grounds at Evanston Orme locates the hiding place. Alcantara and another Japanese are there. Orme tells Alcantara with a wrench, but the other escapes in the darkness with the papers. Orme finds in Alcantara's pockets a folded copy of paper. At the time he must be taken to her and the car to the home of her friend in Evanston. She is still just "Orme."

CHAPTER VI.—Orme goes back to the university grounds and finds the girl of the car waiting for him. She too, wants the bill. Orme tells his story. She recognizes the bill with the scar as Alcantara's rather than the second inscription on the bill is the key to the hiding place of important papers stolen from her father. Both Japanese and South American want the papers. She can not tell him who she is, nor the secret of the papers, but she promises to help her. He tells her "Orme" and she takes the copy of the inscription. The girl disappears. They start out in the black touring car in quest of the missing papers.

CHAPTER VII.—The two boats close in. Orme jumps into Orme's boat. The Japanese find Orme, and, finally discovering that the girl has out of the game, they start the motor and distance pursuit down the lake. Orme again takes the girl to her friend's home. On the way she explains her presence in the boat. The Japanese will get those papers, declares Orme.

CHAPTER VIII.—Boarding a car for the city, Orme finds Alcantara and the girl. He helps through him to find the Japanese who has the papers. In a quarrel Alcantara confronts Orme and refuses to be followed further. Orme goes back to the Pere Marquette where he finds on the paper he took from Alcantara's pocket the address, "211 N. Parker st."

CHAPTER IX.—Next morning Orme goes to "211," a tenement in N. Parker street. He makes a purchase in the ground floor store and receives in his change the marked bill. Arima, teacher of the girl, is in the third floor. Orme calls on Arima, who tells him the girl is on the fourth floor and persuades her to allow him to look for the papers. Orme goes to the fourth floor and enters the room below. He catches himself under a covered table in Arima's front room.

CHAPTER X.—Arima has called Alcantara, Portolito and the Japanese minister. Orme, under the table, finds a loose drawer containing the stolen papers and substitutes for them some mining prospecting papers. Arima and Orme leave enough to convince him that they are of international importance, with a time-traveling machine of that night midnight, Arima produces the papers from the drawer without detecting Orme's presence, and the substitution is discovered.

He passed through the hangings of the doorway to the next room. There he had no gaslight; the window shades, however, were not drawn so closely but that a little daylight entered. He removed the robe and stuffed it under the old sofa at one side. His hat, as Madam Arima had said, was there, and he put it on and went to the hall door. The circle had begun to sing another hymn. Orme got into the hall, shut the door silently, and hurried down the stairs, the long-drawn strains of the song following him and dying away as he neared the street entrance. In the lower hall he removed the felt slippers and tossed them into a corner.

He was amazed at the loudness of the street noises, and the glare of the sunlight as he stepped to the sidewalk. He stood there blinking for a moment, until his eyes became accustomed to the light. The foot-procession of the city streamed by him.

Suddenly a man turned in toward the doorway, and, with a startled exclamation, stopped short. Orme found himself looking into the gleaming eyes of Alcantara.

CHAPTER XIII.

An Old Man of the Sea.

"Oh, Mr. Orme, you are the man I most wished to see." The minister's voice carried a note of unrestrained eagerness. He extended his hand.

Orme accepted the salutation, mustering the appearance of a casual meeting; he must keep Alcantara out of the building.

"I was sorry that I could not be at your apartment this morning," continued Alcantara, "and I hope you did not wait too long."

"I was sorry that I could not be at your apartment this morning," continued Alcantara, "and I hope you did not wait too long."

"Indeed?" Then there will surely be many answers to his advertisement."

"Oh, he will not advertise," Alcantara laughed. "Already he knows where the papers are. While waiting for the clue of the bill, he discovered what others had already availed themselves of it."

"That is curious," Orme smiled. "How did he discover that?"

"In a roundabout way. I won't take time for the story."

They walked along in silence for a little distance. Orme was figuring on an escape, for the minister's clutch on his arm was like that of a drowning man's. Finally he sought the simplest means of getting away. "I have an engagement," he said. "I shall have to leave you, here. Thank you for walking with me thus far." He disengaged his arm.

"My dear Mr. Orme," said Alcantara, "why should we beat around the bush?"

"Why, indeed?" said Orme. "Portolito knows that his papers are in your possession. Speaking for him, I offer you five thousand."

"Why do you drag Portolito into this?" said Orme. "You know that he has merely been your agent from the start. You think he has bungled, but I tell you, you are the one who bungled, for you picked him to do the work. He had bad luck hiring a burglar for you. He lost his head when he ran away with another person's motor car and had to hand the marked bill to a country justice. He showed bad judgment when he tried to fool me with a fancy lie. But you are the real burglar, Senior Alcantara. Any capable diplomat could tell you that."

"They May Have Stolen the Clue From You."

Alcantara's yellow face grew white about the lips. His eyes flashed balefully.

"Curse you!" he exclaimed. "You know more than is good for you. Take care!"

Orme laughed in disgust. "Oh, drop this melodrama. I am not afraid of cheap Machiavellism. In this country there are some crimes that are not excused by high office."

The minister's teeth showed. "You shall see, my young friend."

"Doubtless. But let me tell you one thing: If anything happens to me, my friends will know where to look for the criminal."

Alcantara snarled. "Don't be too sure."

"If necessary," continued Orme, "a word to certain persons as to the commission for building warships—five hundred thousand, is it not? by the new arrangement—in gold."

Alcantara, in ungovernable rage, raised his light cane and struck. Orme fended the blow with his arm, then wrenched the cane away and threw it into the street. A swarm of passers-by gathered about them so quickly that in a moment they were the center of a circle.

"You dunce," said Orme. "Do you want the police?"

"No," muttered Alcantara, controlling himself with a great effort. "You are right." He darted into the crowd at one side, and Orme, quick to take the hint, disappeared in the opposite direction, crossing the street and jumping into an empty cab, which had drawn up in anticipation of a flight.

"To the Rookery," he ordered, naming the first office building that came into his head.

"Sure," said the driver, and away they rattled.

A glance back showed Orme that the crowd was dispersing.

At a distance was Alcantara. He had seen Orme's escape, and was looking about vainly for another cab. But cabs are not numerous on North Parker street, and Orme, so far as he could tell, was not followed.

When his cab drew up at the busy entrance on La Salle street, he found his way to the nearest public telephone. The hour was close to five, and he must discover quickly where he could find the girl. He called up the Pere Marquette. "This is Mr. Orme," he explained to the clerk. "Have there been any calls or messages for me?"

"Yes, sir, Mr. and Mrs. Wallingham called up at 12:30 to know if you were going to Arradale with them."

The golfing engagement! Orme had not even thought of it since the evening before.

"Anything else?"

"Yes, sir. A Japanese came about one o'clock. He left no name."

"The same man who came last evening?"

"No, sir, an older man."

The Japanese minister had doubtless gone straight from Arima's apartment to the Pere Marquette. "Anything else?" asked Orme.

"There was a phone call for you about 11 o'clock. The party left no name."

"A woman's voice?"

"Yes, sir. She said: 'Tell Mr. Orme that I shall not be able to call him up at noon, but will try to do so as near two o'clock as possible.'"

"Did she call again at two?"

"No, sir. There's no record of it."

A Lady Came Into the Gazette Office Last Monday Just Before Press Time

She asked for a paper and was told that the papers were not off the press but that they would be in just a little while.

"Oh, I want Saturday's Paper," she said. "I want it for the ads. I came away from home and forgot to take it with me."

This lady was keeping abreast of the times by reading the advertisements. She was informed in regard to the STORE NEWS of the day. On the bargains advertised in that one issue enough money could be saved ON NECESSITIES to pay for the paper for the entire year.

Every Reader of the Gazette Every Day Reads Some of the Advertisements.

Some read them for bargains. Others are attracted by good logical arguments in regard to goods of all kinds.

The best goods all over the land are the advertised goods. Many women refuse to buy UNADVERTISED goods which are only too often IMITATIONS of advertised products—not good enough to stand the test of publicity. They live only as substitutes for something REALLY GOOD. Often dealers make more money by pushing SUBSTITUTES, though the best dealers everywhere have found this a poor practice. Two important points for every reader of the advertisements to keep in mind are:

1st. The best merchandise in most every line is that which is advertised.

2nd. Only the best can stand the test of advertising.

The first point is easily proved. Think of the best food products in the world, the best clothing or shoes, or hats, the best rain coats, the best silver plated ware, the best in any line—it's always the advertised goods that are best. You buy advertised goods, you eat advertised goods—you know this fact.

The second point is known because it costs more to market goods than it does to make them. If the goods advertised do not have merit enough to cause you to order again and again when in need, the advertising will be a failure. Advertising costs money—BIG MONEY, and its only purpose is to get people to try the goods ONCE. If the goods themselves do not merit a repeat order from you the advertising will not influence you to try them again. THAT IS WHY ONLY GOOD GOODS CAN STAND THE TEST OF ADVERTISING. It's your repeat orders that count.

It Pays to Read the Ads.

To keep informed of the best goods on the market, to keep informed of the store news—it pays. Read all the ads, every day. Read those ads which interest you—you can tell by the headlines. It's just like reading news. Much of the advertising news is more interesting than the regular news.

SIX PERSONS INJURED IN COLUMBUS RIOTING

Fury of Violence So Great Street Car Traffic Is Entirely Abandoned.

Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—Rioting was continued in this city last night and one man was fatally shot and five others injured. The force was the violence of the crowds that all street car traffic was abandoned during the night.

Mayor Marshall again declared that he would not call for troops. He said police would continue to ride the cars, rioting started at Hillier park, where a band concert was being held. A mob gathered in Mohawk avenue blockaded the car tracks and stopped the cars. Jeering mobs gathered about the crews and a fight started. Motorman L. S. Duvall was struck in the head with a brick, and fell unconscious in the street. Conductor W. P. Miller and Motorman L. P. Evans of another car, were also attacked and severely bruised by sticks and rocks.

When two automobile loads of police arrived the crowd numbered about 5,000 people. Three rioters were arrested.

When John J. Gallagher, a conductor, was called "scab" by a crowd near Saint Clair avenue, he turned to a woman sitting behind him. She handed him a large revolver which she took from a valise at her side. He then began firing into the crowd. The woman, tall and handsome, stood up and cried "Give it to them, Jack."

Just then an automobile load of police drove up. Gallagher and the woman were placed under arrest. In the woman's valise were found two more revolvers and ammunition. She said her name was Anna Gallagher, the motorman's wife.

At the police station Gallagher and his wife were released on bond, furnished by the railroad company.

Emmet Hoover was shot through the leg by a motorman, whom the crowd tried to drag off and beat.

BEGIN NATIONAL RIFLE SHOOT

American Sharpshooters Assemble at Camp Perry for Big Matches.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 15.—With the close of the rifle and revolver matches of the Ohio State Rifle Association, the 1,000 or more marksmen gathered here from every state in the union have turned their attention to the national contests, which began today.

During the present week all the special revolver and rifle matches will be run off, and while the flower of American sharpshooters will participate in these events, the main interest is, of course, centered in the regular national matches which will begin August 22. While the special matches are 14 in number, and include many handsome and valuable trophies, the regular national matches number but three—the national team match, a national individual rifle match, and a national pistol match, but the results of the latter are far more important. The marksmen who have the best aggregate score in the president's match (in special match) and the national individual match with the individual military championship of the United States. At present this honor is held by Mayor W. H. Martin, of the Second Infantry, New Jersey National Guard, who captured it in 1909 with a total aggregate score of 636.

RUSH TROOPS TO FIGHT FIRES.

Many Lives Imperiled, Great Damage Threatened in Northwest Forest.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Forest fires in the northwest, threatening destruction to human life and to millions of dollars' worth of property, have alarmed officials of the interior department and forest service.

Are Local Advertisers Looking For Direct Results From Their Advertising?

Do Big National Advertisers Look For Direct Results?

Do Local or Do National Advertisers Get Direct Results From Advertising Sufficient to Justify the Expense?

To Each of These Questions the Same Answer, "NO."

And Yet It Pays to Advertise. Yes It Pays Wonderful Dividends On the Advertising Investment.

This article won't interest the man who says it does not pay to advertise. He is so far behind the times that the only excuse he has for being in business is the fact that he is in business, and that's not mere sarcasm. It's a fact that needs but little thought to substantiate it. Look around you, see the non-advertiser everywhere, he exists, but he doesn't DO THINGS. Or better still, look at the advertisers, here in Jamestown, in Chicago, New York, everywhere. The advertiser is the big, live, hustling merchant and manufacturer, the man you like to do business with, the man whose goods you like to buy.

Marshall Field, Wanamaker, Macy's, all are big because they advertise.

Advertising makes it possible to sell the products of Jamestown manufacturers in all parts of the world.

Yet Direct Results are not forthcoming. Direct results are not looked for by the biggest and best advertisers.

Then How Does Advertising Pay?

Advertising goes all over the land and if it delivers the message it should it says, "Here is a good place to trade, or a good article to buy, because it is thus and so," and the impression so made REMAINS INDEFINITELY.

Build on top of that another good impression, and then another and another.

Enough such good impressions will sell the goods. Not today, not tomorrow, but when the reader is ready to buy. It takes time to educate.

If you advertise an article in a way that makes a good impression, not only for the article but for the store that advertises it, that good impression will bring you patrons for other articles you sell.

That won't be direct result. It won't even be indirect result, but it will be increased business.

The test of an advertisement is not what it does today, or tomorrow, or this month. You cannot test an advertisement by trying to gauge its returns. It's the campaign that counts. It's the good will it makes. It's the impression it forms. It's the way it educates buyers, and moulds the minds of both young and old, particularly the young, because they are the buyers of tomorrow. Cumulative force of advertising is worth a hundred direct results.

The seasoned merchant knows this. The merchant who has the foresight to plan, who dreams dreams of the future, who is not satisfied with just the natural increase, but who is building an institution—he is the advertiser. He today is moulding the minds of the coming generation, establishing a prestige which once established will remain. His store can burn down, he can lose all his earthly belongings, BUT HE CAN START AGAIN, and that great asset of public Good Will, that prestige which he built by his advertising he cannot lose, no more than he can lose his name or reputation.

Beginners in advertising should know this. The Gazette is not anxious to allow advertisers to begin using space with false expectations. A beginner can no more expect to KNOW ALL ABOUT ADVERTISING than he can about medicine.

A year's study and experience will help wonderfully, but more time is required, more study and observation.

The Gazette places at the disposal of its advertisers the services of this department, and is always glad to suggest helps and plans for successful advertising.

It's never policy to merely run an ad. An advertising campaign is what you need. A campaign adequate for your proposition. If just an ad occasionally is all you want, it's often better to SAVE the money and not advertise at all, because an ad or two WON'T DO.

An ad or two has no more effect upon your business than a stroke or two of an ax would have in felling an oak. It requires many strokes.
